CULTIVATING QUIET

I know of a young adult group who frequently visited convalescent homes and hospitals. There they would entertain the residents and patients by reading to them, listening to their stories, and sharing whatever goodies they had baked for the occasion. At the end of their time together, the kitchen staff of the facility would treat the young visitors to hot chocolate before they headed home. On every visit to one particular institution, an eccentric cook would look around the group, point to one or another of the students with her wooden spoon and announce knowingly, "You are going to be a priest" or "you are going to be a nun." Perhaps that's one way of discerning a vocation. However, it is no more reliable than reading tea leaves, consulting a fortuneteller, or gazing into a crystal ball.

In this weekend's reading, we are offered more substantial methods for recognizing and responding to that call from God that we name "vocation." Notice that in each of the calls featured in the scripture selections, vocation is represented as a process that evolves during a dialogue. Together, Samuel and Eli eventually discerned that the younger man was experiencing an overture from God. This was not understood with absolute clarity immediately; rather, there was a process of wondering, puzzling, and waiting.

So also with the disciples. They heard about Jesus from John the Baptizer and were curious to learn more. Through their conversation with Jesus, it began to be clear that their learning would take time - it would grow out of being together and relating to one another carefully and truthfully. Only gradually would their learning about Jesus and learning from Jesus develop into loving acceptance and realization of who He was. Out of that process grew a vocation.

Vocation derives from the Latin vocare, which means "to call." God calls each of us to come together into one people fashioned in the image of Jesus Christ. It is by Christ's own vocation that we are gathered. Contrary to traditional thinking, vocation does not pertain only to clergy or religious life. Vocation is God's call to every human being to come to the fullest and best realization of themselves in Christ.

Although God calls, not everyone is listening all the time. To hear that call and to allow it to guide our choices and share our future requires discipline in order to prevent ourselves from remaining or becoming spiritually deaf. So many voices call for our attention; so many activities distract us. Therefore, we need to make a serious effort if we are to become and remain sensitive to the divine presence in our lives. Others often help us to hear, to discern, and to respond. But we also have to help ourselves.

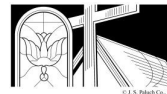

For that reason, St. Paul reminds us that the Holy Spirit dwells in each of us as in a temple. However, in order to become aware of that holy presence and to avail ourselves of the Spirit's light and guidance, believers must cultivate quiet within themselves where sensitivity and realization can grow. Perhaps we can become more attentive to the Spirit by slowing down, tuning out, and turning off all that would call us elsewhere. Once we have accomplished this, at least for a little while, then we can hear and handle and heed the call of God. At its very essence, that call enables the believers to realize the fact stated so clearly by St. Paul, "You are not your own." Perhaps this is the mantra that will help us to attune our hearts and minds to God and to the Son, Who was sent to live among us. Jesus lived and died acknowledging that He belonged to God. He was not His own. Only by listening to and living by God's many calls to us, do we become who we are intended to be. Samuel did that, Paul did, Andrew did, and Peter did. Will we listen? Will we cultivate that quiet deep within, where God is waiting to speak?

Many women visit the center and receive free services which give them the strength to say "YES" to life when baby supplies and support may have been the only reason to say no. Many of the women who come through our doors believe abortion is their only option. The center provides counseling, materials, and financial support for women so that they are able to receive the truth about their choice and live a healthy good life.

If you took a bottle last weekend and were not able to return it, please call Legacy of Life Foundation at 215-788-4051.

MUSIC "NOTES"

Dr. Frank Klose ~ Music Minister

Email: fklose@siparish.org ~ Phone: 267-670-3413

This weekend we return to "Ordinary" time. However this weekend's readings serve no ordinary purpose. There are two major themes in today's readings: the divine call and subsequent call to follow Jesus, the Lamb of God.

Thus our musical selections reflect this with "Here I Am, Lord" (#777), which is restated in today's Responsorial Psalm. In "The Summons" (#790), we reflect that we are summoned by God to follow Jesus, just as John helped Simon, Peter, and Andrew along, stating, "Behold the Lamb of God." Thus, at Communion, we will sing "Behold the Lamb" (#939) and go forth with "Go Make a Difference" (#775), glorifying the Lord with our lives, setting the example that hopefully will allow others to join.

If anyone is interested in joining any of the parish music ministries (choir, youth band, First Light), please contact Frank at the email address above.

TO: The Parishioners of St. Ignatius Parish
FROM: Donna Farrell, Archdiocesan Coordinator for the World Meeting of Families - September 2015

So many people have asked "How can I help with the World Meeting of Families - Philadelphia 2015? We have one way!

We expect thousands and thousands of visitors from around the U.S. and the world to join us next September and there is now a host family program to supplement the hotel rooms in the region. We need host families!

Homestay, A Dublin company, works every day to match host families with visitors with an online system and they created a special online host family site just for WMOF 2015.

Parishioners, school families, and other area residents can easily sign up online to be host families. Hosts list specific accommodations they can offer, household rules, and language preferences on the website and visitors search for a match.

Please help us share this opportunity with your community and spread the word about hosting a family by directing people to our website: www.worldmeeting2015.org under Host a Family or directly at <http://bit.ly/HostAFamily>.

If you have any questions about Homestay, please email host@worldmeeting2015.org. Thank you for your support at this exciting time.

A Red Rose Can Be Placed By The Respect Life Altar

We encourage all to pray for life. Our March for Life bus trip to Washington, DC is this Thursday, January 22nd. It is not too late to join us. If you cannot make it, please join us for a special Mass to be celebrated by Msgr. Shoemaker at 7:00am to prepare for the pilgrims to march. To register, contact nmcneela@gmail.com or call the rectory. Today is Sanctity of Life Sunday.

"Even if the forces of darkness appear to prevail, those who believe in God know that evil and death do not have the final say." (Pope St. John Paul II).

We all know who wins the battle of good vs. evil in the end. The Bible tells us so. But what will the casualties be in this spiritual battle? Of course, the greatest gift we have is life, which is the very reason why Satan wants us to LOSE it. We lose it by sin. We are tempted to sin by Satan. He is rarely ever mentioned in modern media. Satan doesn't commit sin, he has us do it. We need to know that we can resist temptation through grace which we receive as a free gift from God, just for the asking. We have the Mass, the sacraments, prayer, and God's redemption all available to help us. Pray for life.

Our Lady of Guadalupe, pray for us.
